STEP INTO THE STADIUM

You have entered Pokémon Stadium, where Pokémon Trainers test the mettle of their Pokémon in beautiful 3-D. The battles are challenging for inexperienced Pokémon League hopefuls, and even the most dedicated Pokémon Masters will meet their match in the game's grueling Cups and Gyms. The fun goes beyond the battle arena with minigames, a photo gallery and an option to import Pokémon from your Game Boy.

POKÉMON BATTLES ON THE N64—COOL!

Pokémon Stadium focuses on one of the most popular and exciting aspects of the Pokémon Game Boy game—the battles. Inside this Stadium you can do battle with the famous Gym Leaders and the Elite Four, and you can also enter Cups with Pokémon of various levels and sizes. With your Game Boy game and the Transfer Pak that is bundled with Pokémon Stadium, you can use your favorite Pokémon in the battles and even play your Game Boy Pokémon game on your N64. If you don't have a Pokémon Game Boy game, don't worry. You can rent all the Pokémon you need to battle every last competitor in the game, including the Gym Leaders, your friends or the fierce and powerful Mewtwo. But that's not all Pokémon Stadium has to offer. In the Gallery, you can snap pictures of your own or rental Pokémon, and the Kids' Club features nine minigames that let you test your skills in a number of carnival-type games. There is even a Hall of Fame in the Victory Palace to honor great Pokémon!

GAME BOY POKÉMON GAME

You can use the Transfer Pak and the N64 to play your Game Boy Pokémon Red, Blue or Yellow game on your TV. You can also transfer Pokémon from your Game Boy game to Pokémon Stadium and use them in battle.

GAME PAK

TRANSFER PAK

GAME BOY

RENTAL

RENT OR OWN

The Transfer Pak allows you to use your own Pokémon in all of the battles in Pokémon Stadium. Rental Pokémon are available if you don't have a Game Boy Pokémon game or if your Pokémon don't qualify for some battles. You can even make a team that has your own Pokémon fighting side by side with rental Pokémon.

POKÉMON STADIUM TOUR

The main overworld of Pokémon Stadium is where you can choose most of the activities, features and battles in the game. It's set up like a map, and you move the Magneton-shaped cursor over the part of the game you'd like to enter and press the A Button to begin your game. The main battles take place in the Gym Leader Castle, the Stadium and the Free Battle area. The minigames are located inside the Kids' Club, and the Victory Palace will begin to fill up once you start winning Cups. You need to use the Transfer Pak and a Game Boy Pokémon game to access the Game Boy Tower and the Pokémon Lab.

Gym Leader Castle

They say the person who reaches the top of Gym Leader Castle is the ultimate Trainer. You must defeat three Trainers and one Gym Leader in each of eight Gyms, then beat the Elite Four and your Rival to make it to the top.

Stadium

Inside the Stadium you will find the Poké Cup, the Official Pokémon League Tournament; the Prime Cup, an "anything goes" competition; and the Pika and Petit Cups for smaller and lower-level Pokémon.

Game Boy Tower

If you have a Pokémon Red, Blue or Yellow game, you can use the Transfer Pak bundled with Pokémon Stadium to play it in the Game Boy Tower. The screen's border will reflect the color of the Pak you are playing.

Pokémon Lab

Inside Professor Oak's Lab, you can arrange your Game Boy Pokémon Pak items and Pokémon and save them to your Pokémon Stadium Pak. You can also trade Pokémon with your friends (with a second Transfer Pak) and access a 3-D version of your Pokédex that's jam-packed with interesting info about your Pokémon.

The STADIUM where tournaments are held. Test the mettle of your Pokémon with four sets of rules.

Free Battle

Up to four players can participate in the Free Battles. Players can use the Transfer Pak to battle with their own Pokémon, and rental Pokémon are also available for use. Battles with three or four players are played tag-team style.

Victory Palace

This Hall of Fame will be empty until you can finish a Cup or the entire Gym Leader Castle. Once a team is successful in battle, statues of the members will be enshrined in the Hall of Fame.

Kids' Club

Fun-loving Pokémon invite you to join them in the Kids' Club, which has nine minigames starring Pikachu, Magikarp, Lickitung, Ekans, Clefairy and others. Minigames can be played at Easy, Normal and Hard difficulty levels.

HOW TO BATTLE

Giving battle commands to your Pokémon is menu-driven and simple in Pokémon Stadium. Once you've decided which six Pokémon will form your team in a Cup, Gym or Free Battle, you will then pick three to use in each particular battle. Battles are turn-based, and you give one command at a time to your Pokémon.

CHOOSE YOUR ENTRY POKÉMON

The Gyms, the Cups and even the Free Battles each have rules about which Pokémon you can enter into a battle. All of them are open to Pokémon from your Game Boy Game Pak, if you have one, and, of course, rental Pokémon are always available. At the start of a match, you choose a team of six Pokémon from either your Pokémon Game Boy game, the rental Pokémon, or a combination of both. Only the Pokémon who meet the eligibility requirements for the battle will be shown. You can register teams you use often, which makes the start of a match move very quickly.

GAME BOY PAK POKÉMON

The Pokémon on your Game Boy Pak that are eligible for the current match (determined by level, among other factors) will be shown in boxes with their nick-name and level displayed. You may choose these Pokémon for your team, and you may also add rental Pokémon to make that team balanced, if you'd like.

REGISTERED POKÉMON TEAMS

When you have found a team you really like, you can register it to make it easy to access at the start of a match. You can register up to 10 teams for each of the six different sets of rules—Gym Leader Castle, Free Battle and the four Cups. You can save any sort of team to the Stadium Pak, even if some or all of the Pokémon came from a Game Boy cartridge.

RENTAL POKÉMON

Every battle has Pokémon for rent. The Pokémon will always conform to the rules of the match, and the attacks, level and HP will be different for the same Pokémon in different battles for example, the rental Gengar in the Gym Leader Castle is level 50 and has Confuse Ray, while the rental Gengar in the Prime Cup is level 100 and has Night Shade.

SELECT POKÉMON FOR BATTLE

Your team has six Pokémon on it, but you can take only three into any given battle, except an "Anything Goes" match in the Free Battle area and the battle with Mewtwo, where you can use all six members of your team. Each Pokémon is assigned a button on the Controller, and you choose that Pokémon to be on your team by selecting its assigned button. The first Pokémon you choose will be the first to battle. The Pokémon are then reassigned to the top, right and bottom C Buttons, so you can choose them in battle.

TAKE YOUR TURN

You have three choices for action during each turn. You can attack with your current Pokémon, a process you start with the A Button; you can change your current Pokémon, which you initiate with the B Button; or, if things are really bad, you can Run, or quit the battle, by pressing the Start Button. The flow chart below shows how a turn progresses.

PUSH A, B OR START

If you want to battle with the Pokémon that is already in the battle area, press A. If you want to change Pokémon, press B. If you want to quit, press Start. If you quit, you will automatically lose the match.

If you choose to Change Pokémon, you can use the R Button to view your remaining Pokémon and their corresponding C Buttons. Just press the C Button that matches the Pokémon you would like to use—it will replace the current Pokémon.

CHECK POKÉMON

DON'T TIP OFF YOUR ENEMY!

You can use the R Button to check which attack you want to use or which Pokémon you want to take into the fight, but if you're battling a human opponent, you'll lose the element of surprise. To prevent them from knowing what attacks you have or which Pokémon you've picked, memorize which C Buttons you've assigned everything to and pick blindly. That way, your opponent will never know what's coming. The more you keep them in the dark, the less strategy they'll be able to plan.

TIME TO BATTLE

You've sized up your enemy, picked out your Pokémon, and there's nothing left to do but get in the arena and duke it out! Whether you're fighting friends or the legions of Trainers that the one-player game will throw your way, you'll soon find that many battles are long affairs, requiring intelligent strategy as well as strong Pokémon to ensure victory. Before you try to leapfrog straight to the top of Gym Leader Castle, though, you'd better master some of the basics. Keep in mind as you fight that since chance determines many factors in battle, you'll need luck on your side.

BASIC CUP RULES

1. Decide which Cup you want to participate in then check to see which Pokémon are eligible to enter.
2. Carefully choose six Pokémon to make up your team. It's generally a good idea to pick six different types.
3. Choose three Pokémon to fight in each round. You'll win the Cup if you manage to beat eight Trainers.
4. You'll lose the battle if your Pokémon were illegally enhanced with a game-altering device.

5. You'll also lose the battle if you freeze two Pokémon or put two Pokémon to sleep in the same round, as this is considered dirty fighting. It's all right to put one Pokémon to sleep and to freeze another.

6. Another forbidden dirty tactic is to use Explosion or Self Destruct with your last Pokémon. It will end the match, since neither side will have any Pokémon left, but since you triggered it, you lose.

TYPES & ABILITIES

The key to success when battling Pokémon is matching up against your opponent's Pokémon types. Every Pokémon has strengths and weaknesses, and if you want to win, you'll have to use one Pokémon's strength to take advantage of another's weakness. It all boils down to an incredibly advanced game of rock, paper, scissors.

Trainers who play Pokémon on their Game Boys will find this chart familiar. By lining up the attack type with the type of Pokémon you're facing, you can determine what the best tactics should be. For instance, let's say you are facing a Grass-type Pokémon. Under the Opponent's Pokémon Type, find Grass and then follow the column down. Since there are + signs in the Fire-, Ice-, Poison-, Flying- and Bug-type Attack columns, any one of those attacks will score double the amount of damage a standard attack would do. If there's a - sign in the column, it means that the attack will do only half the standard damage. If there's an = sign, the attack will not affect the enemy at all.

ATTACK TYPE

ATTACK ADVANTAGE

You'll gain even more of an advantage by playing to your Pokémon's talents. If your attack type is the same as the Pokémon who is wielding it, that attack will do one-and-a-half times the damage it would do if it were in the hands of a Pokémon of a different type. So if you equip the Water-type Vaporeon with Water Gun, it'll be much stronger than if it were in the hands of Cubone. Also, if you manage to hit the enemy's weak spot for a Critical Hit, you'll do double the standard damage.

SAME TYPE _____ X 1.5

CRITICAL HIT _____ X 2

DUAL-TYPE POKÉMON

As any Pokémon Master can tell you, there are many Pokémon out there with multiple personalities. Pokémon who have two different types can be great assets, because they boast twice the attributes of a single Pokémon. If you have a Psychic-and-Grass-type Exeggutor, for example, it'll have strong attacks against Water-, Fighting-, Poison-, Ground- and Rock-types. Of course, the flip side of the coin is that dual-type Pokémon will also have twice the vulnerabilities of a single-natured creature. Balancing the risks and benefits is what Pokémon is all about.

SAMPLE: PIKACHU VS. GYARADOS

This is what we call a total thumping. Pikachu wields an attack that is the same as its type (a Thunderbolt). Plus, the attack is supereffective against BOTH of Gyarados's types. If Pikachu scores a Critical Hit, it'll do 12 times the damage!

THUNDERBOLT ATTACK	X 1.5

ELECTRIC vs. FLYING	X 2

ATTACK TYPES

No matter what type your Pokémon is, its offensives will be split into two groups—attacks and Special attacks. Normal attacks are physical blows like Peck or Bite. If your Pokémon uses a part of its body to deliver the blow, chances are that it's a normal attack (the exception is Ghost-type attacks, which are also considered normal attacks). If your Pokémon uses some element like ice or water to fight, then you'll be looking at a Special Attack. Refer to the charts below for a detailed breakdown.

ATTACKS

The strength of and resistance to physical attacks is determined by your Pokémon's Attack and Defense ratings. Be sure to use the supplement Iron to boost your Pokémon's Defense and Protein to boost its Attack rating.

SPECIAL ATTACKS

If any of these attack types are your Pokémon's forte, then you'd do well to strengthen its Special rating with lots of Calcium. The Special rating controls both the power of Special Attacks and the resistance to them.

BAD STATUS

Even if you don't match up well against a certain Pokémon, it doesn't mean you should give up hope or run for the hills. Many attacks will work regardless of what type you're facing, no matter how extreme your disadvantage. Using these attacks is especially important early on in a match, because you can lay the groundwork for a long, victorious battle instead of just running from a bad situation. You can improve your Pokémon's status or try to undercut that of your opponent by using attacks that may not damage the opponent but will give you a chance in a long, drawn-out battle.

Use an attack like Double-Team to make your Pokémon harder to hit or one like Sand-Attack to cut down the opponent's accuracy. By boosting your own stats or hurting those of your enemy, your odds will greatly improve.

An attack like Toxic is also excellent because it is guaranteed to poison the enemy if it makes contact. Then, as long as you have the stamina to wait it out, the other Pokémon will eventually succumb to the slow drain.

Paralyzing your enemy with an attack like Thunder Wave or Body Slam will be a vital skill in the later Cups. Not only does it give the other Pokémon a random chance of losing a turn, but it'll also slow it down so you can attack first.

When in doubt, confuse 'em. An attack like Confuse Ray won't deal any damage, but it'll disorient the other Pokémon to the point that they may attack themselves. Watch out, though—they won't stay confused for the rest of the match.

NO NEED TO TYPECAST

There are six attacks that are exceptions to typecasting. These six—Super Fang, Psywave, Sonicboom, Seismic Toss, Night Shade and Dragon Rage—will do the same amount of damage no matter whom you're facing. You'll never do double damage with them, but that's a small price to pay for the reliability of these attacks. They're smart attacks to have, just because they give your Pokémon a fighting chance in almost any situation.

BUILD A TEAM

The beauty of Pokémon Stadium is that you won't build just one team—there are limitless options for your rosters, and you'll need to explore different mixes for the varied challenges of the Cups and Gyms. You need low-level Pika Cup fighters, high level juggernauts and teams to fend off your friends, so you'd better start training!

CREATING A BALANCED TEAM

There are probably some Pokémon Masters out there with five Mewtwo and a Mew who think they'll run roughshod over the competition, but that's not going to cut it. For one, you can't use two of the same Pokémon on one team. Even if that weren't true, though, the idea is still wrong. The key to success in Pokémon Stadium is diversity, and unless you have Pokémon from all walks of life fighting for you, you're likely to run into serious problems. Whether you're training for a low-level Cup or just a bout with one of your friends, you need to be prepared to face any conceivable roadblock, and that means mixing it up.

STRONG TEAM

Here's an example of a well-balanced team. Almost all of the Pokémon types are represented, so they'll be ready for anything.

PIDGEOT NORMAL FLYING

LAPRAS WATER ICE

EXEGGUTOR GRASS PSYCHIC

GENGAR GHOST POISON

ELECTRODE ELECTRIC

DUGTRIO GROUND

WEAK TEAM

On the flip side, this is a poorly thought-out team. They're all part Flying-type—one Electric-type could K.O. them all.

GYARADOS WATER FLYING

ZAPDOS FLYING

ARTICUNO FLYING ICE

MOLTRES FLYING FIRE

DRAGONITE DRAGON FLYING

AERODACTYL FLYING ROCK

TEAM EFFORT

This is the ideal setup—every Pokémon watches another Pokémon's back. If one of your Pokémon's weaknesses is vulnerable, bring in the Pokémon that can counteract the enemy. Of course, in most Cups you can take only three Pokémon, so you'll have to choose wisely.

POKÉMON CONDITIONING

Sure, you can always rent your Pokémon—but winning with a rental won't give you the same satisfaction as winning with one of your own brood. When you capture and name your Pokémon in the Game Boy games, you can then train them with the attacks you want and give them the boosted power to carry them through the competition.

STARTING SMALL

When you stumble upon a Pokémon in the wild, you'll have the option of battling it with your own Pokémon. If you can weaken the Pokémon to the point where a Poké Ball can capture it, you can then add it to your collection. Although the Pokémon may be weak at first, it may become a valued member of your team by the time you bring it to the Stadium. Take the captured Pokémon on the road with you in Pokémon Blue, Red or Yellow. The more it does battle, the more useful it will be later.

STATUS CHECK

Be sure to collect the best Pokémon possible of its type. Two wild Pokémon may look identical or have the same experience levels, but you should check the stats of each before you make your selection. One may have more Hit Points, or perhaps stronger ratings, than another. Since you are going to commit lots of time to training it, you should choose the one with the best status.

SEASONED BY BATTLE

The best way to build up your Pokémon is to throw them into the heat of battle. If you use them wisely, they will win the battles and the Experience Points that go with them. The Experience Points your Pokémon receives will vary depending on the relative strength of its opponent. If two Pokémon fight in a battle, they will split the points. As a Pokémon accumulates more and more points, its level will increase. It can learn new, more powerful attacks as it reaches higher levels, so it pays to keep putting it into battles.

OTHER WAYS TO GAIN EXPERIENCE

If you have some money and you don't feel like training your Pokémon yourself, take it to daycare. It will cost 100 P for every experience level, and you won't get to choose attacks.

If you have the Experience All item, the Experience Points a Pokémon gains in battle are distributed among all your Pokémon. Otherwise, only the Pokémon in the battle get the points.

A Pokémon acquired through a trade will be slightly weaker in battle, but it will gain Experience Points 1.5 times faster than Pokémon captured in the wild.

FORTIFYING YOUR POKÉMON

You'll find many helpful items on your adventure as you search for Pokémon, but some of them are especially useful. You should save some items until they'll be the most useful. Rare Candy boosts your Pokémon up an experience level, so you should wait to use it until your Pokémon reaches levels requiring more Experience Points. Items such as Iron, Calcium, Carbos, HP Up and Protein will increase your Pokémon's status permanently and should be used immediately. Other items are only temporarily effective. You can use a maximum of 10 items on any one Pokémon.

INSTANT EVOLUTION

When many Pokémon reach particular experience levels, they evolve into completely new species. The new species is often more powerful than the Pokémon's original form. For example, Magikarp evolves into the ferocious Gyarados at Level 20. If you want to keep your Pokémon in its original form, press B while it is evolving to stop the process. It may be desirable to keep the less-evolved Pokémon if you want it to learn certain attacks quickly or if you already have the evolved form.

TAKE IT TO THE STADIUM

The attacks you pick up in the Game Boy adventures can yield spectacular results in the Stadium. If you can acquire attacks that your Pokémon would not normally have—through either Technical Machines or Hidden Machines—you may find your own Pokémon will fare better in battle than their rental counterparts. A Pokémon with several different types of attacks—like a Fire-type with psychic powers—can be a life saver when facing a Trainer who can choose from a wide variety of Pokémon.

VERSATILITY

WATER

Water-type Pokémon like Vaporeon can have, of course, a range of water attacks that are supereffective against Fire-, Rock- and Ground- types but relatively weak against other types.

ICE

Supplemented with Ice-type attacks, Vaporeon can send a chill down the spines of Grass- and Dragon-type opponents that normally would have little to fear from a Water-type in battle.

GROUND

A Fire-type against a Fire-type can turn into a long, ugly battle—unless one of them has a supereffective attack. In the case of Charmeleon, a Ground-type Dig attack will easily extinguish Ninetales's hopes of victory and prevent a Pokémon substitution.

FINDING TMs AND HMs FOR FIGHTING

There is no shortcut in the Game Boy games to finding Technical Machines (TM) that will give your Pokémon a variety of attacks. You'll need to win them as prizes in battles with Gym Leaders or get them from strangers you meet along the way. You should also stay on the lookout for Hidden Machines (HM) that you may run across when you least expect it. If you try to help out people you encounter, they may reward you with an HM like Fly or the potent Surf. You may not even be able to use the TM or HM you find if none of your Pokémon have the ability to implement it. For example, Explosion or Solar Beam are compatible only with certain types of Pokémon. Loading up on TMs will be worth the effort, however, when you find yourself in tough final battles for the different Stadium Cups. Remember, your opponents also will have TM and HM attacks, so it's best to stock up on Pokémon with these powerful moves.

TACTICAL TIPS

You've selected your Pokémon for the competition. You've chosen three for a specific battle. As your Pokémon appear on the Stadium floor, you've got to come out with your Pokémon blazing. The tactical advice below will help you to avoid the crucial mistakes that can cost you the battle.

CHANGING OF THE GUARD

Your first choice of Pokémon in a battle may not be the best choice, so you'll need to switch and take a hit. The Bug-type versus Bug-type match shown below could be costly to Butterfree's HP, so you should replace it with a different type. Going with Electrod is a wise move—it's fast and has effective attacks against flying opponents. On the other hand, Water-and-Psychic-type Slowbro will take an immediate beating.

GOOD PLAN

BAD IDEA

THE UPPER HAND

When you have the advantage of the first move, it's often wise to hit your opponent with a disabling attack. For example, the speedy Electrod may want to use an attack like Thunder Wave, shown on the right. Even if you end up switching to a Pokémon with a greater advantage, the effects of Electrod's paralyzing attack will linger throughout the battle. If you have a supereffective attack that may potentially knock out your opponent on the first move, you may have not to absorb your opponent's retaliatory attack.

HIT THE WEAK SPOT

There are clear-cut advantages to using certain types of attacks against certain types of opponents. The Surf attack shown here is almost always devastating to Fire-type opponents such as Flareon. Check the chart on page 7 to determine which attacks are effective against which Pokémon. If you take a moment to look at all your potential opponents before the battle, you can have Pokémon ready to go with the proper attacks.

TAKE COUNTERMEASURES

Supereffective attacks go both ways, of course. If you see your opponent setting you up for a fall—like pitting a Ground-type Dugtrio against your Electrode—switch to a better matchup before the attacks begin. Switching to a Flying-type opponent will turn the tables against Dugtrio, forcing your opponent to change again or face an almost impossible matchup.

ADVANTAGEOUS ATTACKS

Most Pokémon have at least one attack that will give it an advantage in the match. Some, like Aurora Beam or Psychic, are powerful attacks that have secondary effects on some ability of the opposing Pokémon. Attacks like Sharpen or Agility will boost your own abilities. Other attacks, like Poison Sting or Sing, will leave your opponent vulnerable or slowly deplete its HP. If you see a percentage symbol next to an attack, it means the attack has that much of a chance of altering the opponent's state.

HAZE ATTACK

Haze is an invaluable attack to have if your opponent has inflicted bad status upon your Pokémon. It can instantly remove bad status changes, such as Sleep or Poison.

KIDS' CLUB

The Kids' Club is a place where Pokémon Trainers of all ages can relax and unwind after the tough battles in the Stadium. The nine Kids' Club games are set at a Normal difficulty level, but Hard or Easy levels are available to suit any player.

JOIN THE MINIGAME FUN!

Just below the Stadium on the overworld lies the Kids' Club, a collection of nine carnival-style minigames starring various Pokémon. Up to four players can compete at the minigames at the same time. If you have fewer than four players, the computer will pick up the slack. There are two modes in the Kids' Club—Pick a Game, in which you select one of the minigames to play, and Who's the Best, in which you choose a set number of wins and the first player to hit that number is the victor. The computer randomly selects the first minigame in Who's the Best?, and the person with the fewest wins picks the next game.

MAGIKARP'S SPLASH

Each player controls a Magikarp and must press and hold the A Button to make Magikarp jump up and hit a counter high in the air. Timing is everything in Magikarp's Splash, so it's important that you hit the A Button again right as Magikarp lands on the ground to send it back up to the counter quickly.

RUN, RATTATA, RUN

This Rattata race is pretty tricky—tap the A Button repeatedly to run, while using Up on the Control Pad to jump over the hurdles that pop up along the course. The jumps need to be timed very carefully, or your Rattata will have to pause to pick itself up after stumbling on a hurdle.

CLEFAIRY SAYS

A bespectacled Clefairy teacher is testing the memory of its students. Watch the arrows on the blackboard and repeat them back by pressing Up, Down, Left or Right on the Control Pad. The chain of arrows will grow longer each time, making it more and more difficult to repeat.

SNORE WAR

Watch the pendulum swing, and when it hits the center, press the A Button to cast Drowzee's Hypnosis attack. If you miss, your Drowzee will begin to doze off. The pendulum will start to move faster as the game progresses.

THUNDERING DYNAMO

Pikachu and Voltorb are getting all charged up in this game. When the light on the machine is blue, tap the A Button rapidly, and when the light on the machine is green, tap the B Button to charge up your Pokémon. If you tap the wrong button, you'll lose energy.

SUSHI-GO-ROUND

Move Lickitung around with the Control Stick and eat sushi with the A Button. The player that eats the most expensive meal wins. Each type of sushi has a value (the orange is the most expensive), and if you eat more than one of the same kind of sushi in a row, you will get more points.

EKANS'S HOOP HURL

Aim your Ekans with the Control Pad then hurl it with the Control Stick at the Diglett that pop up. Gold Diglett are worth twice as much as regular Diglett, so aim for the glittery critters when you can. Flicking the Control Stick just the right amount is key.

ROCK HARDEN

Kakuna and Metapod compete to see who can take the most lumps from the boulders before they pass out. Harden with the A Button carefully. Each time you press the A Button, a little HP is consumed—but not as much as when your Pokémon is bopped on the head with a boulder.

DIG! DIG! DIG!

Oddly enough, the Ground-type Sandshrew is digging for water. Alternate tapping the R and L Buttons quickly to dig a hole in the ground. If your timing is off, Sandshrew will dig slowly or not at all. The first player to hit water is the winner.

You can do a little Pokémon photography in the Gallery, using rental Pokémon or your very own Pokémon from a Game Boy Pak.

POKéMON PORTRAIT

The chart to the right explains which buttons on the Controller to use to get the perfect portrait of your Pokémon. Be sure to save your favorite pictures in the Album.

STICKER STATIONS

When you have some shots you're really proud of, you can print them as stickers. Use the Pick Photo option to select either 4 or 16 shots and save them. Take your Pokémon Stadium Pak to a Pokémon Snap Station and print your handiwork for everyone to see. To find the Pokémon Snap Station nearest you, visit www.pokemon.com or call 1-800-859-4521.

You can catch your Pokémon in some pretty funny poses—take your time, move your camera around, then snap your Pokémon in their finest poses!

Here it is, Pokémon Masters—your first taste of serious competition. The first round of Championship Cups and Gym Leaders will ease you into the rigors of extended battles, and you'll have to develop good strategies if you want to make it all the way to the top. Getting a feel for the way your opponents think is critical.

PIKA CUP

Novice Trainers should hone their skills in the Pika Cup, the entry-level competition open only to Pokémon ranking from levels 15 to 20. Moreover, every three-Pokémon team sent into battle cannot exceed a combined level total of 50. And though the rules keep the battles moving at a beginner's pace, winning will be no easy task.

By Battle 6, the Trainers will begin marching out a wider variety of Pokémon types. Keep your bases covered by choosing Pokémon that are superior over multiple types, such as using a Grass-type that can do double duty by handling both of Hiker's Ground- and Water-types.

Because the combined-level limit is 50, Lass can't enter both Gyaradette and Cruelette into the same match. And one is plenty. Using Dratini's Thunder Wave, paralyze the big brute she's chosen. Once it's at bay, send in Poliwrath, since it's resistant to fellow Water-types.

Plan defensively. Avoid sending in types that are characteristically vulnerable to the types on Fisher's team. A key member of your group should be Exeggutor, since its Mega Drain replenishes its lost HP while also effectively combating your opponent's abundant Water-types.

PETIT CUP

The welterweight division of Pokémon competitions, the Petit Cup is the Pokémon League's most exclusive tournament. Only Pokémon between levels 25 and 30, measuring under 6'8" and weighing less than 44 pounds can participate.

Because of such strict requirements, only 45 of the 151 Pokémon qualify for competition.

Start with Kadabra so you may not even have to go to a second Pokémon. The Psychic attack will level most of the opposing Pokémon. Keep Electrode's Thunder attack ready to stop Wrath in its tracks.

Dewgong and Electrode should put the odds in your favor when you fight Gambler. Surf will defeat Lemgo and Pidashra. Electrode's Thunder is devastating against Gongdew. Kadabra's Psychic attack is a good backup.

Order is important. Electrode is the natural choice against water and is the least vulnerable, so the Electric-type might be a good first choice. Keep Charizard's Fire Blast and Dewgong's Surf ready for the Grass-types and Rhydance, respectively.

BATTLE 6

BIRDBOY

Birdboy's airborne attacks are best thwarted by a combination of Electric-, Water- and Ghost-type attacks. If you alternate Electrode's Thunder and Thunder Wave attacks carefully, they may take you through the battle.

PEWTER GYM

There are plenty of Rock- and Ground-types in the Pewter Gym—the Gym Leader, Brock, is especially fond of flinty Pokémon. If you soak Pewter's Pokémon with a Water-type then plant a Grass-type, the Rock- and Ground-types won't seem so hard. Although opponent Pokémon are listed here at level 50, all Gym opponents will match your highest-level Pokémon.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

This team is heavy on Fire-types with Ground-type attacks to combat the Grass-, Bug- and Poison-types that appear rather frequently on the Trainers' teams. The Water- and Grass-types are there for the Rock- and Ground-type work, while the Psychic- and Electric-types round out the team.

CERULEAN GYM

You'll find plenty of splashy Water-types in the Cerulean Gym, which means a Pokémon (or three) with Electric-type attacks would be a welcome addition to your team. Rental Pokémon like Kadabra and Staryu are very good picks for this gym, because they combine useful types—Psychic and Water, respectively—with powerful Electric-type attacks.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

Our team packs enough voltage to shock the Water-types favored by the Cerulean Gym members while mixing in enough variety to tackle any Pokémon the gym members might fight with. Staryu, with its Thunderbolt and Recover attacks, is especially useful when you fight Misty, the Gym Leader.

VERMILION GYM

Surge, Vermilion Gym's Leader, is a master of Electric-type Pokémon—but not every member of the gym is so attached to Electric-types. There are plenty of Water-types hanging out in Vermilion Gym, so an Electric-type of your own is in order. The Old Man likes to play with Fire-types, but luckily, Ground-types resist fire nicely.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

To effectively ground out all the electricity in this gym, we've included three Ground-type Pokémon on the rental team. Electric-type attacks such as Thunder and Thunderbolt are powerful enough to knock nearly any Pokémon out with just a few hits—except for our ground-dwelling friends.

CELADON GYM

While famous for producing the strongest Grass-type Trainers, Celadon Gym obviously doesn't require its Trainers even to have Grass-types on their teams. Only Erika, the Gym Leader, seems particularly fond of working with a garden. Battling in Celadon

Gym requires a very diverse team, much like our recommended rental team.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

The members of Celadon Gym have a bouquet of different Pokémon to throw at you, with lots of color and no really defining features. Our recommendation, therefore, is to take in many different Pokémon yourself, being sure to include speedy Pokémon that will attack first and a varied array of attacks to choose from.

FUCHSIA GYM

If you ask a Fuchsia Gym member, "What's your poison?" you will get a varied response—some prefer Bug-and-Poison-types, some like Grass-and-Poison-types, and others like their Poison-types straight up. One member likes Psychic-types, which, incidentally, are very strong against Poison-types. Our response to all this poison is a team heavy on the Psychic- and Ghost-types.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

Poison-types are favored in the Fuchsia Gym, so our team features a combination of Psychic-, Ghost- and Ground-types as the antidote. For the unusual Psychic-type-packed team, we suggest Cloyster's chilly Aurora Beam, Gengar's soothing Hypnosis, and Electrode's shocking Thunder.

BATTLE 2 TAMER

The Psychic- and Ghost-type Pokémon on your team will do very well against Tamer's Grass-type Pokémon. Gengar's Thunderbolt will crack Lerking's shell, and Cloyster is sure to stop Slashesand. Lead with Gengar, and have Kadabra and Cloyster at the ready.

SAFFRON GYM

While Saffron Gym may have more than its fair share of Psychic- and Ghost-types, it's an equal-opportunity gym that has plenty of other types to keep you busy. You might have to fight Fire-, Fighting-, Water-, Poison-, Normal- and Dragon-types to make it through this gym's workout.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

Your rental team should be made up of six Pokémon types, with no Bug-types. Although Psychic-types are weak against Bug-types, create your team with Pokémon that have the Ice-, Electric- and Rock-type attacks that Psychic-types are also weak against.

CINNABAR GYM

While Cinnabar's Gym Leader, Blaine, might like to play with Fire-types, the rest of the Gym members don't feel they need to keep that torch burning. They do like to have a theme, however. Judoboy prefers Fighting-types, Psychic senses the power of Psychic- and Water-types, and Nerd's Pokémon have a tendency to self destruct or explode.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

Mr. Mime can overpower the Fighting- and Poison-types you'll encounter first. Ghost-type Gengar's Thunderbolt attack is perfect for the match with Psychic, and you'll need a resilient group to defeat Nerd. To cool off Blaine's Fire-types, bring along Vaporeon and Kingler.

VIRIDIAN GYM

You've made it to the last gym, where the Trainers favor extremely varied and mighty teams with no underlying themes. Giovanni, the Gym Leader, has a hardy team that is difficult to defeat—and his Persian is unbelievably potent. Defeat this bunch with a team full of Pokémon that attack fast and can take a lot of damage.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

There is plenty of electricity on this team, and that's because Electric-type attacks, such as Thunder or Thunderbolt, can cause a ton of damage to many different types Pokémon. Gengar and Alakazam also have plenty of power against nearly any type of Pokémon. Add to that Starmie's versatility and a strong Normal-type, and you have a great team!

VS. ELITE FOUR

It's said that whoever reaches the top of Gym Leader Castle is the ultimate Pokémon Trainer—well, you're on top, but can you stay there? The Elite Four are quite possibly the best Pokémon Trainers in the world, and now you are challenging them in battle. The four specialize in some of the toughest types of Pokémon to defeat.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

Before you go into battle with the Elite Four, you must prepare a fightin'-tough team of superior Pokémon with diverse attacks. Our rental team packs enough power to stay on top of Gym Leader Castle...maybe even for more than four battles...

RIVAL

It seems as though Rival always manages to stay one step ahead of you. After you defeat the Elite Four, open the last door of the castle to find Rival waiting. He is a talented Trainer, and he uses a team of very diverse Pokémon. But his team will vary depending on whether you are using your own team of Pokémon or renting a team.

If you are renting Pokémon, Rival will fight with the Type A team. If you are playing with Pokémon from a Red or Blue cartridge, Rival will battle with either the Type B, Type C or Type D team, depending on which Pokémon you chose at the start of the game. If you are playing with a team from a Yellow cartridge, Rival will fight with a Type E, Type F or Type G team, depending on what his Eevee evolved into. If Eevee hasn't evolved yet in your Yellow Pak, a random team from Types E, F and G will be chosen.

TYPE A

If your Pokémon team came from a Red or Blue Pak, Rival will use one of these teams.

	BULBASUR
	TYPE B
	SQUIRTLE
	TYPE C
	CHARMANDER
	TYPE D

If your Pokémon team came from the Yellow version of the game, Rival will use one of these teams.

	VAPOREON		JOLTEON		FLAREON		EEVEE
	TYPE E		TYPE F		TYPE G		TYPES E, F, G

RIVAL POKÉMON TEAM TYPE A

You will fight Rival with whichever team you fought the Elite Four with. That sort of mixed team will work well no matter which team Rival uses. Diversity on your team is always the way to tackle diverse opposing teams.

MEWTWO

Mewtwo will appear above the Stadium once you've completed all the Cups and Gym Leader Castle. It's fitted with three of the most powerful attacks, Psychic, Thunderbolt and Blizzard, and has Rest, which restores its high HP. Mewtwo can be defeated, however.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

You can bring up to six Pokémon into the battle, but your best bet is to send in Electrode or Magneton to paralyze Mewtwo with Thunder Wave, then use Ditto to transform into a copy of Mewtwo. If you use Blizzard several times, you should win the match easily.

AFTER MEWTWO, ROUND TWO

Once you have defeated Mewtwo, you will open up the second round of Pokémon Stadium. You have to take on all of the Cups, the Gym Leader Castle and, finally, Mewtwo, all over again. In Round Two, your opponents are much harder to defeat, naturally. You will still not be able to rent Mewtwo in this round, but you can rent Mew for the "anything goes" Prime Cup.

With Ditto's help, you have defeated Mewtwo. Congratulations! You're off to Round Two!

In the Round Two Prime Cup, you can rent Mew to make your team even stronger.

ROUND 2

Round 2 is extremely hard, with harsher schedules and intelligent Trainers loaded with much stronger Pokémon. You'll need luck to win, but you'll have to be downright charmed if you hope to win with an all-rental team. Our strategy is based on rental teams, but you may want to train your own to stack the deck in your favor.

PIKA CUP

They may seem cute and cuddly, but the Pokémon that qualify for the Pika Cup Round 2 are just as dangerous to each other as more advanced Pokémon. To qualify, Pokémon must be between levels 15 and 20. When bringing your own Pokémon into Stadium, look for those with high speed and at least one awesome attack such as Psychic.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

Our top rental team covers most of the bases, but the luck of the draw can make any team look weak. Remember to use special attacks such as Thunder Wave to paralyze opponents. In addition to the Pokémon chosen, you may also want to consider Starmie and Exeggutor for your team.

FISHER

Kazamish will give you fits in this match. Your best bet may be to send in Kadabra to match psychic against psychic. After that, pit Lapras against Nairish and Golemish, and go after Tarmish and Khanish with Raichu. Fisher always puts up a battle, so you'll need some luck.

PETIT CUP

For Pokémon between levels 25 and 30, the Petit Cup Round 2 is the biggest challenge in town. The eight opposing Trainers have honed their skills since the first round, and their tactics are about as predictable as lightning strikes. You'll stand a better chance of winning if you bring your own, specially built-up Pokémon.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

This rental team has the best mix to defeat each of the Trainers' teams, but it's not fool-proof. It lacks a Fighting-type Pokémon, so it's often touch and go when facing Normal-type opponents. If you want to experiment, try leaving out Abra and renting Machop.

GREAT BALL

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

Hey why mess with a good thing? You'll want to keep your team largely the same for the Great Ball, although you should swap out Lapras for the Grass-and-Psychic powerhouse Exeggutor. Again, your battles will be easier if you use pumped up Pokémon from your Game Boy game.

MASTER BALL

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

We won't kid you—it will be extremely hard to beat the Master Ball this time around with just rental Pokémon, but with a little luck and a strategy you can pull it off. We brought back Lapras and Exeggutor for this team, but feel free to keep Gengar and Articuno if you like.

PRIME CUP

The no-holds-barred action of Round 2 of the Prime Cup is about as intense as it gets. Your best bet is to stock your team with carefully selected Pokémon with lots of Speed and super high attack ratings. In general, the most effective attacks against the widest range of Pokémon are what you need—attacks such as Psychic or Blizzard. You'll have a definite advantage if you train your own super Pokémon and transfer them into Stadium. If you are renting, you'll get a treat—Mew is now available as a powerful rental.

JUDOBOY

Judoboy's team is just waiting for a fall. Give it to him by mustering Hypno and Fearow. Both of these Pokémon are adept at attacking Fighting-type Pokémon. After that, you'll have only Cate and Rino to worry about. Use Fearow's Hyper Beam on Cate and bring in Dugtrio against Rino.

Fearow flies back into the mix in this match. Use Drill Peck against the three Grass-type Pokémon if they dare to appear. If Goldance or Seadrance enters the battle, meet it with Magnetron and the Thunder attack. Dugtrio will ground out an attack against Tonance if necessary.

Magnetron's Thunder attack will raise havoc with Birdboy's aerial Pokémon, but you might want to use Dugtrio against Zapdash and Gastash. Fearow will also come in handy if Venomash enters the ring. All the rest of Birdboy's team should be easy pickings for Magnetron.

The final Trainer has a difficult team to combat, but Golduck, Magnetron and Hypno may be just the trio that can get the job done. Use Hypno if Jynxstor or Raistor appears, and bring in Magnetron if Gyarastor enters the fray. Golduck should be able to handle the rest.

ULTRA BALL

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

It only gets tougher in the Ultra Ball, so you'd better throw in the perfectly balanced Mew as the mainstay of your team. Its Psychic-type attacks will destroy most anyone, and with the rest of these resilient bruisers on the team, you'll be able to withstand a ton of damage.

PEWTER GYM

Brock and his team of hard-nosed underlings are back for more fisticuffs in Round 2, and they've had plenty of time to seethe over their first loss and learn a couple of new tricks. You're going to have to fight smart—expect tougher battles and more intelligent decisions from your rival Trainers than the first time around.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

You know from the first round that Brock's team will be Rock- and Ground-type intensive, but you'll need a diverse set of Pokémon even to reach him this time. Obviously your Krabby and Paras are going to get a lot of workouts, and everyone else will see some action as well.

CERULEAN GYM

Misty's Cerulean Gym is no more friendly this round, and your Pokémon had better be prepared to take a serious dousing. Water-type Pokémon abound in nearly every Trainer's stable, and the keys to victory will lie with defensive tactics and Electric-type offensives. Some Trainers are unpredictable, so be prepared for anything...

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

Your Magnemite will be the backbone of this team, as Thunder Wave and Thunderbolt will be the bane of all Water-type opponents. The Staryu is also effective, as it's outfitted not only with Thunderbolt but also Psychic, Surf and Recover. Remember, everyone will play a role.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

You'd think that stacking your team with Ground-types would be the thing to do, but all of the Trainers in Vermilion Gym have such effective counter moves against them that you should try something different. This team will help you get through the diverse fighters along the way.

CELADON GYM

As you well know, Celadon Gym is a haven for Grass-types that love to poison, paralyze and put Pokémon to sleep. You should also know by now that beating the Trainers will take more than a bunch of Fire-type Pokémon. As you advance through the castle, you'll see that a completely balanced team is essential to victory.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

Don't worry about those Grass-types—your Ninetales and Dragonair have enough fire-power to toast them all, and Tangela's Poison Powder is a nice second line of offense. You'll cover the rest of your bases with a Pidgeot, a Raichu and a Poliwhirl that has Hypnosis and Earthquake.

First out of the Celadon Gym gate is the Lass, whose team is heavily stacked in favor of Normal-types. Lead with Poliwhirl, as it can use Hypnosis to put any of them to sleep instantly, and be sure to bring along Raichu for paralyzing purposes. Pidgeot is another good choice.

FUCHSIA GYM

Koga still hasn't fumigated the Fuchsia Gym interior—there are all kinds of poisons lingering in the air and a bunch of Pokémon that know how to use toxic tactics. You'd better be ready to finish off Trainers' teams pretty quickly, because once your Pokémon fall ill, you won't have long to fight before they fall unconscious.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

This team is the cure-all for poisoning. With an Alakazam and a Gengar on your side, you'll have enough Psychic-type power to pummel most Poison-types, and if that doesn't work, you can always use Dugtrio's Ground-type attacks. Electabuzz, Dodrio and Poliwrath are also key.

SAFFRON GYM

Prepare for some long, drawn-out battles! The Saffron Gym's Leader is pro-Psychic-type, and as you well know, Psychic-types are extremely tough to match up against. As if that weren't enough, it seems like the Trainers in the gym march to the beat of their own drummers, so you'll need Pokémon that can survive any onslaught.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

You'll need a little bit of everything to survive this gym. This team is heavy in Psychic abilities, which will see you through most trials and give Sabrina's Pokémon a taste of their own medicine. Jolteon will be your best friend—Psychic-types will fear its Pin Missile attack. As always, home-schooled Pokémon will improve your odds.

CINNABAR GYM

The battles really start to heat up once you set foot in Blaine's Cinnabar Gym. Unfortunately, the big man himself is really the only Trainer who uses Fire-types, so you need to plan more for the fights leading up to the ultimate battle. Remember to frequently use attacks that confuse, paralyze and put opponents to sleep.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

You may recognize most of these Pokémon from teams past—in fact, Exeggutor, Gengar and Alakazam just finished whooping on the Saffron Gym Trainers. They're just as useful here, and when they're joined by a strong Starmie, Electrode and Fearow, they'll be near unstoppable.

VS. ELITE FOUR

Do you have what it takes to beat the Elite...again? If you thought this fight was hard last time, then prepare to be scared. Without a team of Pokémon that you've personally pumped on the Game Boy, you're going to have to hope for fate to smile on you.

RECOMMENDED RENTAL TEAM

While this rental team will give you a fighting chance, try using it as a template for training your own Pokémon—you'll have a much easier fight. Starmie and Lapras are your Water- and Ice-type threats, while Dragonite is a power hitter. Exeggutor weighs in with a heady combo of Grass- and Psychic-type powers, while Gengar and Electrode balance you out.

You'll meet up with one of seven different teams depending on which version (if any) you've plugged into the Transfer Pak and how you've played up your game in that version. Of course, since it's Round 2, he's going to be a much smarter and more tenacious tactician.

MEWTWO

Let's just say Mewtwo wasn't exactly pleased to lose in the first round, and even though it's six against one, you're still going to be in for the fight of your life. We've put together a rental team that will give you a chance, but it will be touch and go. Bring in your own Pokémon for a better chance.

Lead with Electrode and paralyze Mewtwo with Thunder Wave—it may be your only chance. Snorlax can take a lot of abuse and can recover with Rest, so try to use Bide for a turn then attack. Otherwise, just fight to the last Pokémon or start training your own team to overpower Mewtwo at last.

THE ULTIMATE VICTORY

If you beat Mewtwo in Round 2 you'll unlock a special print feature that you can read about on page 208. All of the Trainers, Gym Leaders and Cup challengers have fallen to your teams, but that doesn't mean there aren't any challenges out there. Any Pokémon you've taken to the top will have a place in the Hall of Fame—something special awaits you if you can get all 151 into their own spots of honor.

Doesn't Lapras look regal up there on the podium? Every Pokémon deserves a day in the sun, so you'd better get to battling!

POKÉDEX

And now we present everything you always wanted to know about Pokémon but were afraid to ask. This fully loaded Pokédex comes complete with all the vital statistics of the 151 Pokémon, from the areas you can find them in the Game Boy games to the most useful TMs and HMs they can learn. Use it wisely to train unbeatable teams.

DATA CHART KEY

Cup Icon

If the Pokémon's physical attributes allow it to qualify for either the Pika or Petit Cup, the icon for that Cup will appear here.

Evolution Arrow

This shows what level a Pokémon evolves at or what item or event causes the Pokémon's evolution.

Pokémon Type

The Pokémon's type is listed here, handy color-coded so you can tell their strengths and weaknesses at a glance. Remember, some Pokémon will have two different types.

Area

The small map shows a bird's-eye view of the Game Boy Pokémon world. If the Pokémon can be found in the wild, you can use the color-coded key to determine where and in what version you can capture it.

Abilities

The Abilities Chart shows which attacks the Pokémon will learn as it gains levels in Red, Blue and Yellow Game Boy games. A dash means the Pokémon starts with that ability. If you see an asterisk, read the note below the chart.

#1 BULBASAUR

Bulbasaur doesn't learn very many attacks before it evolves into a Ivysaur at level 16, but if you prevent it from evolving it will learn Poison Powder and Sleep Powder, both of which are great first attacks for long battles.

Poison Powder is obviously a great lead, but you also should take advantage of Ivysaur's Grass-and-Poison-type status with Leech Seed, Razor Leaf or Solarbeam. A Leech Seed at the battle's start will pay dividends to the whole team.

Stats

Every Pokémon's stats are balanced in five different categories: HP (Hit Points), DF (Defense), SA (Special Attacks), SP (Speed) and AT (Attack). This chart shows the breakdown of each Pokémon's skills.

Lowest Level

If the Pokémon exists in the wild, these lines show the location and lowest possible level at which it can be found. This can be important information, as some Pokémon can barely make it into the Pika and Petit Cups. Also, Pokémon raised from a very low level and never traded will often be more powerful.

Attack Chart

These meters show how vulnerable your Pokémon is to various types of attacks. The more squares that are filled in, the greater the chance your Pokémon will be on the losing end of the battle against that type.

TM & HM Abilities

The Pokémon can learn every attack listed here, but it will be up to you to find the TMs and HMs that can teach them. Like on the Abilities Chart, the attacks in blue are especially effective for that Pokémon. If you see a yellow dot, it means that only Pokémon caught in the Yellow version of the game will be able to learn that HM or TM.

#4 CHARMANDER

TYPE: FIRE

#5 CHARMELEON

TYPE: FIRE

Charmeleon is in the same boat—since it learns some of its best attacks after level 25, it can't use them in the lower Cups. Be satisfied with Ember, then equip it with Dig for a surprise attack. Body Slam is good for paralysis.

#6 CHARIZARD

TYPE: FIRE FLYING

You should keep a Fire-type attack, but Charizard can do so much more. Teaching it Earthquake or Hyper Beam will keep the enemy off guard, while Fissure is great if you're a gambler. You can even teach it Fly if it's from the Yellow version.

#7 SQUIRTLE

#10 CATERPIE

TYPE: BUG

We're not going to lie—Caterpie isn't the best of fighters. You'll have only String Shot and Tackle at your disposal, a weak combo at best. Your best bet is to look for a Caterpie with good stats and then evolve it into a Butterfree.

#13 WEEDLE

TYPE: BUG POISON

Another fairly useless Bug-type, Weedle won't put up much of a fight against anyone. You can hope to poison someone with Poison Sting, but you're far better off just searching for one with good stats and then raising its level.

Like its fellow cocooned Pokémon Metapod, Kakuna can only sit and raise its defense with Harden or fire off String Shots until it finally is overcome. Look for a high-level wild one, but not in the Yellow game—you can find them only in Red and Blue.

Beedrill is very vulnerable to most attacks, but if you can get in a Twineedle or Pin Missile attack against a Psychic-type, you'll win the day. Toxic, Fury Attack and Hyper Beam are also respectable attacks. Use Swift for quick strikes.

SURF

#56 MANKEY

TYPE: FIGHTING

This frenetic little Fighting-type is excellent against Rock- and Normal-types, but be sure to retreat if you see a Psychic-type. Low

Kick and Fury Swipes are great attacks it'll learn on its own—try adding Submission or Seismic Toss.

#78 RAPIDASH

TYPE: FIRE

Like many upper evolutions, Rapidash can learn Hyper Beam, so consider teaching it this powerful TM as well as Fire Blast. With its lightning-quick speed, Rapidash can almost always attack first with Fire Spin, immobilizing the enemy.

#136 FLAREON

TYPE: FIRE

Flareon has a high Attack rating, and you should take advantage by teaching it Hyper Beam or Body Slam, which can paralyze opponents. Fire Spin and Flamethrower are both supereffective, but Fire Blast is a powerful fiery addition.

#137 PORYGON

TYPE: NORMAL

You'll pay dearly to pick up a Porygon at the Celadon Game Corner, but it's worth it. Although it's a Normal-type, Porygon can learn many strong Psychic attacks like Recover and Psychic. Blizzard and Thunder Wave are also wise choices.

The beauty of Mew is that you can teach it any TM or HM that exists in the Game Boy games. Of course, it can learn only four of these at a time, so you still must choose wisely. It's best to keep Psychic, since Mew is so strong with it, but you have free rein to do whatever you want. You'll also get to rent Mew in Round 2 of the Prime Cup.

POKéMON STADIUM 207

STADIUM SECRETS

Pokémon Stadium has several surprises for the true Pokémon Masters out there. As you beat the challenges the game has to offer, you'll be rewarded with bonus features and ultra-rare Pokémon. Keep in mind, however, that some of these objectives are extremely hard and will require lots of practice on both your Game Boy and N64.

DODUO AND DODRIO GAME BOY

Once you beat the Master Ball in the Poké or Prime Cup, you'll receive the Doduo Game Boy. With it, you can play at Game Boy Tower at twice the normal speed. If you finish the Master Ball in both Cups you'll get the Dodrio Game Boy, which goes four times the normal speed.

POKÉMON YELLOW PIKACHU

You don't have to accomplish anything to see this feature—all you need to do is plug a Pokémon Yellow Game Pak in to the Transfer Pak. You can then go to the Gallery and take pictures of your special Pikachu, whose animations are different from the Pikachu in Red and Blue.

POKÉMON PRESENTS

Whenever you finish the Gym Leader Castle in Round 1 or 2, you'll be rewarded with a relatively rare Pokémon. These range from the three Pokémon you choose from at the beginning of Red and Blue to other elusive creatures. Which one you get is randomly determined.

SURFING PIKACHU

If you bring your own Pikachu through Round Two of the Prime Cup Master Ball and use it in every round, it will learn the HM Surf. It's great in battle, and you can use this Surfing Pikachu to open a minigame in the house south of Fuchsia City in the Pokémon Yellow Game Pak.

KIDS' CLUB DIFFICULTY

There's even a secret buried in the minigames at the Kids' Club. If you choose "Who's the Best" and beat the CPU players five times in a row, you'll unlock a fourth difficulty option. "Hyper" plays exactly the way it sounds—you'll have to play incredibly well to win.

POKÉMON YELLOW PIKACHU

If you beat Mewtwo in Round 2, you'll unlock some rare stickers. Go into the Gallery, then hold down the L and R Buttons and move to the cursor to "Print." It'll switch to "Bonus," allowing you to print out the title screen backgrounds from the game at a Pokémon Snap Station.

AMNESIA PSYDUCK

This is the toughest challenge of all. If you manage to put all 151 Pokémon into the Hall of Fame, you'll be rewarded with a special Psyduck that has been equipped with the attack Amnesia. With its Special rating through the roof, this Psyduck's a superpowerful foe!
